Blood On The Highways

America's highways are saturated with blood, Last year alone, 37,500 people were killed in highway accidents. Another 2,000,000 were injured.

There is no way to adequately describe the suffering of the victims and their families. But anyone can see that the price we are paying for recklessness, carelessness, and incompetence behind the wheel is out of all reason and must be reduced.

There is still another aspect to this—the economic aspect. Last year alone, despite all possible savings and economies, the automobile casualty insurance industry was unable to make both—ends meet. The premiums it collected were more than $100,000,000 less than it had to pay out because of the steadily mounting cost of accidents. Manifesly, no enterprise can long operate on a deficit basis.

The immediate answer is higher rates. But it is conceivable that should the rates go high enough, the insurance companies would be priced right out of the market. And then the alternative would become government-operated compulsory insurance, paid for in part through premiums and in part by taxes. And anyone with the slightest knowledge of government-inbusiness knows that it is always-accompanied by flagrant waste and inefficiency, by ever-expanding, patronage staffed bureaus, and by an insatiable appetite for more of our tax money. Even worse, government-inbusiness means less freedom and opportunity for our people—and brings us closer to the tyranny of total Ray Papendick of Berkeley, Michigan, was in Grayling the first of theweek looking after his property here. socialism.

There is only one answer to the highway carnage and-all the human-and economic problems it creates. The essence of it is to pass laws that will bar the incompetent and the congenitally reckless from the public highways, and to enforce stringent, uniform traffic codes to the letter. The man who refuses to drive cautiously must be punished and, if necessary, refused the right to drive at all.

Diabetes Week Set for November 16-22; 700 Communities Offer Tests for Aliment

Today there are an estimated 1,000,000 Americans who have undetected diabetes. To find them, the American Diabetes Association is launching its nation-wide Diabetes Detection Drive on Novemmer 18 to enable every man, woman and child to take a test for this chronic allment, which ranks eighth among causes of death by disease in the United States. During the week November 16-22, which has been designated as Diabetes Week, test stor diabetes will be made available in over 700 areas by County and State Medical Societies and Affiliate Diabetes Associations which will co-operate in the detection campaign.

ASK LOCAL AID

Here in Grayling, the hospital, doctors offices, the school and drug stores have been set up as collecting stations for urine samples which will be tested for sugarfree of charge. If further tests are indicated, however, the patient will be referred to his family doctor, it was said.

Plans for the nation-wide detection campaign were outlined by

NORMAL LIFE SPAN

"Since insolin was first used clinically just 30 years ago, countless lives have been saved and restored to usefulness and vitality," Dr. Reed continued. "Today, the diabetic can expect to live just about as long as his non-diabetic neighbor. He can live an almost normal, productive and happy life. There is strong evidence that he can be even more successful than the non-diabetic, because of the self-discipline which his condition requires.

"The American Diabetes Assotion campaign were outlined by Dr. John A. Deed of Washington, D. C., chairman of the Association's National Committee on Devetter of Polymerican Science of Polymerican Committee on Devetter of Committee on Devetter on Committee on Devetter of Commit condition requires.

"The American Diabetes Association," Dr. Reed concluded, "through its Affiliates and local Medical Societies, is conducting a continuing search for the 1,000,000 persons who have diabetes and do not know it. This search is intensified during Diabetes Week (Nov. 16-22), when every man, woman and child in the United States is urged to be tested for diabetes,"

D. C., chairman of the Association's National Committee on Detection and Education.

Diabetes, according to Dr. Reed, is one of the few chronic diseases for which there is a known control. If detected carly and trealed properly, the aliment seldom interferes with a patient's normal life. Left untreated, however, diabetes is often fatal, he said.

DISEASE OFTEN "SILENT"

Dr. Reed explained that diabetes is often a "silent" ailment, which reveals no alarming symptoms at first. Yet diabetes can lead to real trouble, he warned.

For this reason, there is a greatneed for public education about the prevalence of diabetes, he said. Diabetes can strike anyone, at anytime. It occurs more often however, among persons who are ever-40 and the overweight. Women more often than men have diabetes, and married women are its victims more often than unmarried.

The hereditary factor in diabetes is strong, and persons with a family history of the disease are nore likely to develop diabetes han those without any previous than those without any previous history in their family. In the current Diabetes Detection Drive it is suggested that the whole family be tested.
